Caplansky hopes Jews, Palestinians can see rye to rye

Deli diplomacy. Owner of Jewish business signs on to sponsor Toronto Palestine Film Festival

Meaty message

"I hope they understand that we're in this together. This isn't us and them. This is just us."
Zane Caplansky

As public opinion on the war in Gaza becomes increasingly polarized, Zane Caplansky, the owner of Toronto's consummate Jewish deli, is trying to carve out some space in the middle.

The popular College Street eatery has signed on to sponsor an upcoming screening of the Toronto Palestine Film Festival. Caplansky, 46, hopes it is a powerful statement, conveyed with smoked meat and rye.

"I want to make it known that my business, which is identified as a Jewish business, is absolutely supporting Palestinian causes," he said.

"That would maybe make Palestinians understand that it's not black-and-white and maybe make Jewish people understand that it's not black-and-white."

The intensifying conflict in the Middle East has recently ratcheted up tensions in Toronto, which is home to large Jewish and Palestinian communities.

Caplansky, who describes his position as "anti-war," said he has been struck by the "disgusting" and "brutal" nature of status updates on Facebook, which has become a magnet for extreme views.

"There's a war going on. Hundreds of people have been killed," he said. "You can't tell me something positive is going to come out of it."

Seeking to inject some calm into the discussion, he chose this week to announce his support for the film festival's outdoor screening in Christie Pits Park on Aug. 8.

"Caplansky's Deli is sponsoring the Palestinian Film Festival," he posted on the social media site on Wednesday.

Within 24 hours, his matter-of-fact post had garnered more than 150 "likes" and dozens of positive comments.

"The path to peace is through breaking bread … with spicy mustard and pastrami," one friend offered.

Others simply called him a "mensch."

Dania Majid, a programmer for the Toronto Palestine Film Festival, said she is touched by Caplansky's public display of support.

"It's a heartwarming gesture, and I know it's coming from a good place," she said. "Palestinian solidarity is not based on religion or ethnic background. It's based on the principle of human rights for all … Everyone who supports that universal principle is welcome and part of this, whether they be Jewish or other."

On offer during the screening of Laila's Birthday, a dark comedy by Palestinian director Rashid Masharawi, will be a selection of Caplansky classics: smoked-meat sandwiches, barbecue brisket, smoked-meat poutine and maple beef bacon doughnuts.

Caplansky said he made the decision several months ago to supply the film festival with one of his signature blue-and-white food trucks, emblazoned with the slogan, "Sometimes you just have to Jew it up."

"I'm not sure how well that's going to go over," he said, with a laugh.

Funeral home licence suspended again

Benisasia Funeral Homes, which has already been accused of scrimping on chemicals while embalming hundreds of bodies, has had its licence suspended yet again following fresh allegations of misconduct. The new allegations are separate from the old ones and haven't been made public.

For the second time this year, the province's funeral home watchdog has blocked Benisasia from providing services at its Mississauga and Toronto parlours. The owners appealed the original allegations and were allowed to temporarily reopen under strict conditions.

On Thursday, the Ontario Board of Funeral Services filed a second notice to permanently revoke the funeral homes' licences.

WestJet plane lands safely after engine problem

A WestJet plane landed safely at Toronto's Pearson Airport on Thursday on an unscheduled stop due to an engine problem, officials said.

WestJet Flight 585 was headed from Hamilton to Calgary, said airport spokesman Scott Armstrong.

The Boeing 737 had a problem with one of its engines but all 152 people on board were safe, police said. Officials said the plane was met by emergency crews when it landed. The plane has been "taken offline" for maintenance a WestJet spokesperson.

T.O. police still sharing non-conviction records

New recommendations. Association of chiefs calling for stop to controversial practice

Toronto Police Service will continue to share non-conviction records with employers and volunteer organizations while it reviews new recommendations calling for the practice to stop, deputy chief Michael Federico said in an interview.

The volunteer guidelines issued last week by the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police (OACP) asks police forces to keep unproven allegations, withdrawn charges and mental-health calls to 911 from being released except under exceptional circumstances.

Most forces contacted by Torstar News Service say they already have or likely will adopt those recommendations.

While the Toronto police force is studying the new rules, Federico said Wednesday the police will continue releasing non-conviction incidents in so-called vulnerable sector checks issued to those seeking employment or volunteer work with the elderly, the young and the mentally challenged.

"The mere fact that a charge wasn't prosecuted doesn't mean there isn't a risk," said Federico. "People with encounters with police may, in the mind of the employer, provide a risk indicator for their clients."

A theft charge against a prospective employee that didn't result in a conviction, for example, may still be relevant to an employer who serves clients vulnerable to theft, said Federico.

"We can't presume that there isn't a risk to the employer," he said.

Federico said the force supports the OACP guidelines in general.

The OACP guidelines were issued amid an ongoing Torstar investigation documenting how the professional and personal lives of innocent Ontarians have been undermined by routine disclosures of non-conviction records.

Everything from internal police surveillance notes on suspects to allegations dismissed in court have turned up on the police background checks of Canadians seeking employment, volunteer positions and educational opportunities.

In many other cases, innocent Canadians never convicted of a crime have been turned back at the U.S. border for arrests and charges never proven true, the investigation has found.

Competition Bureau. Real Estate Board loses court challenge

The Toronto Real Estate Board has lost a crucial court challenge in its bid to maintain control over certain valuable listing information, such as a property's past sale price and its time on the market.

The Supreme Court of Canada issued a decision Thursday dismissing the board's leave to appeal a lower court ruling.

The ruling by Canada's top court means the case will now go back to the federal competition tribunal. The federal Competition Bureau said it welcomes the second chance to argue its case. The bureau has said the real estate board's rules stifle competition. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Hersi. Landmark case gets scathing sentence

In sentencing Mohamed Hersi in a landmark Canadian terrorism case Thursday, the judge not only gave the 28-year-old the harshest penalty possible, but also delivered a scathing rebuke in her hour-long address to the court.

"How do you rehabilitate an already privileged man for whom neither love nor learning has any meaning?" Superior Court Justice Deena Baltman asked in handing down the 10-year sentence.

At one point she compared the University of Toronto graduate to Canadian serial killer Russell Williams, saying both had deceived their families about their crimes.

Hersi is the first Canadian convicted of attempting to fight with a terrorist group abroad.

A jury found him guilty on May 30 of two terrorism offences: attempting to participate in terrorist activity and counselling another to do the same.

Baltman also issued stringent parole conditions, ruling that Hersi must serve half of his sentence before being eligible for parole. Normally, inmates can apply after serving a third of their sentence.

"The message needs to be loud and clear that it brings severe consequences," she said.

Hersi was arrested at Toronto's Pearson airport with a ticket to Cairo on March 29, 2011. He maintains he was going to Egypt to study Arabic, but prosecutors say he it was a stopover on his journey to Somalia, where he planned to join Al Shabab, the East African Al Qaeda group.

Hersi and his family deny the allegations, claiming he was set up by the undercover police officer who had befriended him and provided the bulk of the Crown's evidence.

Coun. McMahon shrugs off opponent's online attack

Bizarre animation. James Sears site links to 'game' where users choose Ford, Hitler or Putin to assault McMahon

jessica.smithcross@metronews.ca

Coun. Mary-Margaret McMahon has opted not to fight back against the hateful thing that one of her opponents in the upcoming city council election created.

That "thing" is interactive online animation that asks users to choose an avatar — Rob Ford, Vladimir Putin or Adolf Hitler — and press a button to make it assault a partially nude cartoon representation of her.

"That thing where he spanks me? I don't call it a game," said McMahon.

Quoted

"I don't want to waste one minute on that vile man or his vile ideas."
Coun. Mary-Margaret McMahon

McMahon said she's been aware of the animation for a few months. The link is located on a website that one of her opponents in the city council race, James Sears, set up in her name. The website is filled with altered photos of her and bizarre blog posts.

McMahon said she's received calls from voters and said she understands why members of the public are concerned, but she is not choosing to do anything about it herself.

"I don't want to waste one minute on that vile man or his vile ideas," she said. "I take pride in the work I do. I'm absolutely disgusted at his attempt to bring public service and the office of a councillor down into the gutter."

Coun. Mary-Margaret McMahon says she has no plans to retaliate over an opponent's online "assault." MARCO CHOWN OVED/TORONTO STAR

McMahon said she doesn't see Sears and his website as an offline threat, but added that she's not looking forward to the prospect of seeing him at the all-candidates debate in the ward.

Sears styles himself as a pickup artist called "Dimitri the lover."

According to a profile in the Toronto Sun, he's a disgraced doctor who lost his medical licence after pleading guilty to sexual assault and subsequently appealing the decision.

MPPs spending thousands on Toronto pads

Queen's Park. Politicians in nearby towns collecting housing allowance so they don't have to commute to work

MPPs living within relatively easy driving distance of Queen's Park are racking up tens of thousands of taxpayer dollars a year to live in Toronto.

Annual members' travel and Toronto accommodation expenses (2013-14) released Thursday show MPPs from commuter places like Barrie, Hamilton and Cambridge are spending as much as $22,000 each a year on housing allowance so they don't have to drive or take the GO train to work — the same trip that thousands of commuters do every day.

Expenses

The 107 MPPs spent $2.7 million on travel and Toronto accommodation expenses for 2013-14, according to the annual report.

The regulations allow MPPs to collect a housing allowance for lodging when they live more than 50 kilometres from the legislature, but it's now being suggested that it may be time to review the distance requirement — especially since night sittings are rare.

Tory MPP Christine Elliott (Whitby-Oshawa) could hit the taxpayer up for a downtown apartment — as 16 of her legislative colleagues in a similar situation do — but refuses to be any different from her constituents.

"I recognize that most of my constituents take the GO train every day and they commute, so I should be no different," Elliott, who charged just over $5,000 for travelling between home and the legislature, told Torstar News Service.

MPPs living within commuter distance are spending about half a million dollars on Toronto accommodations.

Liberal House Leader Yasir Naqvi said he looks forward to the legislature's Board of Internal Economy discussing whether the allowance rule should be reopened. "Perhaps this issue will come up to be discussed," he said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Tory counting on province, feds to chip in for $8B transit model

Mayoral candidate John Tory laughs with Sue Brydges while campaigning at King and University on Thursday. CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Mayoral candidate John Tory says he's relying on Ontario and federal governments to come up with billions to help fund his $8-billion SmartTrack transit plan.

Tory said his funding model requires each level of government to come up with a third of the cost.

"I have assumed that one of my jobs as mayor is going to have to be to go and champion this with the other two levels of government," Tory said in a luncheon speech Thursday to the Rotary Club of East York.

"With respect to the federal government, I'm optimistic that if we have the right kind of relationship with them, if we don't start the term of office by picking a fight with them on the Scarborough subway, they will be there."

Without actually naming her, Tory slammed rival candidate Olivia Chow for wanting to scrap the $3.5-billion Scarborough subway in favour of the original plan for an LRT to replace the aging SRT line from Kennedy subway to Scarborough Town Centre.

Ottawa and Queen's Park have committed funding to build the Scarborough subway.

City's share

Tory said the city's share of the cost to fund SmartTrack would not come from property tax increases but from tax increment financing, which captures tax revenue from increased development spurred by new transit lines. He said his goal would be to cap property tax increases at or below the inflation rate.

The centrepiece of Tory's SmartTrack plan is to run frequent, all-day train service on existing GO Transit lines from Etobicoke through Union Station to Markham.

The province is supportive of electrifying the lines to permit train service every 15 minutes, and has set some money aside as part of its $15-billion GTA transit plan, Tory said.

"Part of my job is to ensure that the two lines that make up the SmartTrack are at the top or near the top of the list to get some of that funding to get that electrification done in short order." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Report. Tasers, cameras could help prevent deadly use of force by police

Expanding the police use of Tasers, equipping officers with body-worn cameras and educating them on mental-health issues could help prevent deadly use of force when police deal with those in crisis, suggests a new report released Thursday.

The ideas were among 84 recommendations in a sweeping review of the Toronto Police Service's guidelines and practices conducted by former Supreme Court of Canada justice Frank Iacobucci.

"If reasonable steps can be taken to prevent even one unnecessary death, then those steps must be taken," Iacobucci said as he detailed his work. "It is clear that the police are part of the mental-health system. They have become the front-line mental-health workers."

Toronto Police Chief Bill Blair commissioned the report last year after the death of a teenager shot by an officer on an empty streetcar sparked a public outcry over police use of force.

The release of the 346-page report came just days ahead of the one-year anniversary of 18-year-old Sammy Yatim's death, and amid a lawsuit by the teen's family against the officer who shot him and another who Tasered him as he lay dying.

Compiling the report

Iacobucci and his team interviewed more than 100 people — including the families of individuals killed by police, as well as officers involved in deadly encounters — and analyzed more than 1,200 documents as well as submissions from the public. The team also looked at recommendations from previous Ontario coroners' inquests and the advice of experts.

Blair said his force would move to implement the report's recommendations.

While the report was seen as a positive step forward, advocates for people with mental illnesses expressed concern about recommendations relating to expanded use of Tasers.

"We favour, instead, an emphasis on de-escalation," said Jennifer Chambers, coordinator of the Empowerment Council. THE CANADIAN PRESS

TAKING ACTION TO IMPROVE RELIABILITY AT THE TTC

CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

If we are to deliver on our vision of "a transit system that makes Toronto proud," then we need to provide service that is highly reliable, punctual and safe.

I exchanged correspondence with a customer recently, who, while crediting us with recent improvements around cleanliness and information, urged the TTC to continue to focus on service reliability as that is what matters most to customers.

I replied that my team is very clear on that point. Our core service is to provide safe public transit, punctually and reliably. A lot of work is going on behind the scenes at the TTC to make that a reality.

New managers have been brought in to drive up service reliability on both the subway and on our buses and streetcars. These are people with international expertise in their field. Our new Chief Service Officer has been tasked to deliver a suite of actions to address and eliminate the long-standing problem of bunching and gapping on our bus and streetcar routes. This will require efforts by the City to tackle the congested streets that are one factor in the reliability of our service. But there are actions that we can take on our own, such as the return of on-street route supervisors to actively manage service.

On the subway, we are hampered by a legacy of worn-out infrastructure that is becoming increasingly unreliable. Track and signal systems need to be replaced, and we are doing just that. Last weekend, our track, electrical and signals crews replaced a key set of switches between Kipling and Islington stations. The work was delivered on time, but we also took the opportunity to proactively replace other critical assets in the area.

This is a good news story. With both time-expired assets replaced, and work performed to mitigate future problems, this area of the subway will become more reliable. And by adopting a more proactive approach to maintenance and service, our service reliability will improve.

Rescued false killer whale passes major hurdle on road to recovery

Now bottle feeding. Calf was found near Tofino on July 10 and was facing respiratory problems, lacerations and wounds

A critically ill false killer whale calf, rescued off a beach on the west coast of Vancouver Island, has overcome one of its most life-threatening challenges.

Staff at the Vancouver Aquarium say the little creature is now nursing from a bottle as it receives around-the-clock care at the aquarium's Marine Mammal Rescue Centre on Vancouver's waterfront.

The bottle was designed by University of British Columbia PhD student Amelia MacRae, who did research for her master's degree with the aquarium, studying diet and feeding levels of marine mammals.

Clint Wright, the aquarium's senior vice-president, used his experience with cetaceans to coax the male calf to nurse.

The whale was estimated at barely six weeks old when it was found near Tofino on July 10, and still requires some feeding by tube.

False killer whale

The calf was near death, with respiratory problems, lacerations and wounds from being tossed onto the sand and lying on the beach for several hours.

- False killer whales are actually members of the dolphin family and are rarely seen in B.C.'s coastal waters, preferring the open ocean off the West Coast.

Veterinarians hope it will continue to improve its bottle-feeding techniques so the tube feeding can be stopped.

They say the calf is also slowly building its strength, buoyancy and co-ordination, but remains in a flotation sling in a shallow pool, with staff constantly walking it in circles through the water.

Naked thieves steal 60 burgers

Man run over by own pickup truck

Police say a man in Florida was run over by his own pickup truck after getting out to bang on another driver's window.

The Gainesville Sun reports 48-year-old Joseph Carl had been drinking and drove into a vehicle. He got out of his truck and began banging on the window of a woman's car. When the woman drove away, there was nothing holding his truck in place, and it rolled into Carl. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

‘Preventing poverty’ unacceptable goal for charity: Feds

Canada Revenue Agency. Forced Oxfam Canada to change its mission statement

The Canada Revenue Agency has told a well-known charity that it can no longer try to prevent poverty around the world, it can only alleviate poverty — because preventing poverty might benefit people who are not already poor.

The bizarre bureaucratic brawl over a mission statement is yet more evidence of deteriorating relations between the Harper government and some parts of Canada’s charitable sector.

The lexical scuffle began when Oxfam Canada filed papers with Industry Canada to renew its non-profit status, as required by Oct. 17 this year under a law passed in 2011.

Ottawa-based Oxfam initially submitted wording that its purpose as a charity is “to prevent and relieve poverty, vulnerability and suffering by improving the conditions of individuals whose lives, livelihood, security or well-being are at risk.”

The international development group, founded in 1963, spends about $32 million each year on humanitarian relief and aid in Africa, Asia, and Central and South America, with a special emphasis on women’s rights.

But the submission to Industry Canada also needed the approval of the charities directorate of the Canada Revenue Agency, and that’s where the trouble began.

Agency officials informed Oxfam that “preventing poverty” was not an acceptable goal.

“Relieving poverty is charitable, but preventing it is not,” the group was warned. “Preventing poverty could mean providing for a class of beneficiaries that are not poor.”

Oxfam Canada’s executive director called the exchange an “absurd conversation.”

“Their interpretation was that preventing poverty may or may not involve poor people,” Robert Fox said in an interview with The Canadian Press.

The Canada Revenue Agency prevailed, and the official declaration to Industry Canada about the purposes of the non-profit corporation dropped any reference to preventing poverty.

“Our mission statement still indicates we’re committed to ending poverty, but our charitable (purposes) do not use the word ‘end’ or ‘prevent’ — they use the word ‘alleviate.’”

Air Algerie flight crashes in Mali with five Canadians on board

Flight 5017. Airplane travelling from Burkina Faso to Algiers vanishes amid 'difficult weather conditions'

A man speaks on a cellphone outside the Spanish Swiftair airline office in Madrid, Thursday. An Air Algerie flight disappeared from radar Thursday over Mali, officials said. The wreckage was found about 50 kilometres from the border of Burkina Faso. PAUL WHITE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An Air Algerie jetliner carrying 116 people — including five Canadians — crashed Thursday in a rainstorm over restive Mali, and its wreckage was found near the border of neighbouring Burkina Faso. It was the third major international aviation disaster in a week.

The plane, owned by Spanish company Swiftair and leased by Algeria's flagship carrier, disappeared from radar screens less than an hour after takeoff, en route from Burkina Faso's capital of Ouagadougou to Algiers.

French fighter jets, UN peacekeepers and others hunted for signs of wreckage of the MD-83 plane in the remote region, where separatist violence may hamper an eventual investigation into what happened.

The wreckage was found about 50 kilometres from the border of Burkina Faso near the village of Boulikessi in Mali, a Burkina Faso presidential aide said.

"We sent men with the agreement of the Mali government to the site and they found the wreckage of the plane with the help of the inhabitants of the area," said Gen. Gilbert Diendere, a close aide to Burkina Faso President Blaise Compaore and head of the crisis committee set up to investigate the flight. "They found human remains and the wreckage of the plane totally burnt and scattered," he said.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper issued a statement saying he was saddened at news of the crash, and tweets from the account of Lynne Yelich, Canada's minister of state for foreign affairs, said consular officials are ready to provide assistance.

Radio-Canada reported Thursday that a woman from Sherbrooke, Que., was on board. The CBC's French-language service said Isabelle Prevost's family confirmed the 35-year-old was a passenger.

The network quoted her partner, who was not identified in the report, as saying that their three children were meant to be travelling with her but that it was decided they should stay with him.

Radio-Canada also quoted Burkina Faso native Mamadou Zoungrana, who works at the Papineau Hospital in Gatineau, Que., as saying that his wife and their two sons were on the flight. CBC reported they are not Canadian citizens.

Vatican. Pope meets with woman who escaped death penalty for being Christian

Pope Francis met privately Thursday with a Sudanese woman who refused to recant her Christian faith in the face of a death sentence, blessing the woman as she cradled her infant daughter born just weeks ago in prison.

The Vatican characterized the visit with Meriam Ibrahim, 27, her husband and their two small children as "very affectionate."

The 30-minute encounter took place just hours after the family landed at Rome's Ciampino airport, accompanied by an Italian diplomat who helped negotiate her release, and welcomed by Italy's premier, who hailed it as a "day of celebration."

Vatican spokesman Rev. Federico Lombardi said the pope "thanked her for her faith and courage, and she thanked him for his prayer and solidarity." Francis frequently calls attention to the suffering of those persecuted for their religious beliefs.

Lombardi said the presence of "their wonderful small children" added to the affectionate tone of the meeting. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Women-only rail cars relaunched after rape, killing of 13-year-old girl

Thailand's railway authority said on Thursday it will relaunch women- and children-only carriages in main routes nationwide after a 13-year-old girl was raped and killed in her berth on an overnight train earlier this month.

The State Railway of Thailand said in a statement that the special carriages will start operating on trains travelling to the north, the northeast and the south on Aug. 1. Female passengers and boys younger than 10 and shorter than four-feet-11 can ride in the carriages, which will be run by female employees.

The move followed public furor over the assault allegedly carried out by the train's staff in early July. One employee was arrested in the rape and murder and a second was arrested as an accomplice. The national railway governor also was sacked by Thailand's military government.

At least 15 killed as UN school hit by Israeli tank shells in Gaza

A UN school in Gaza crowded with hundreds of Palestinians seeking refuge from fierce fighting came under fire Thursday, killing at least 15 civilians and leaving a sad tableau of blood-spattered pillows, blankets and children's clothing scattered in the courtyard.

Palestinian officials blamed Israel for the shelling, which wounded dozens and came on the deadliest day so far of the current round of fighting. However, the Israeli military said the school "was not a target in any way" and raised the possibility the compound was hit by Hamas rockets.

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon angrily denounced the attack, saying the killing must "stop now." But the frantic diplomatic efforts spanning the region were running into a brick wall: Israel demands that Hamas stop firing rockets without conditions, while Gaza's Islamic militant rulers insist the seven-year Israeli-Egyptian blockade of the territory must end first.

"Many have been killed — including women and children, as well as UN staff," Ban said in a statement, though he did not elaborate and a later UN communique made no mention of humanitarian workers being among the casualties.

In the aftermath of the attack, a child's sandal decorated with a yellow flower lay in a puddle of blood, while sheep and cattle belonging to those seeking shelter grazed in the grass nearby. A large scorch mark scarred the spot where one of the shells hit. Dozens of wounded, including many children, were wheeled into a nearby hospital as sirens wailed.

The UN said it had been trying to achieve a humanitarian pause in the fighting to allow the evacuation of civilians from the area.

UN response

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon demanded Israel and Hamas abide by international law, respect "the sanctity of civilian life, the inviolability of UN premises" and protect humanitarian workers.

Are you sick of sickly-sweet vodkas yet?

Good news!
Distilleries have gone sour on over-the-top sweet flavours and are going back to basics

We've had cream-flavoured vodka, candy-flavoured vodka, even breakfast cereal-flavoured vodka. Now, producers are betting on something different, vodka that tastes like ... vodka.

From an Icelandic vodka made from glacier spring water to a Colorado potato vodka made from freshly picked home-grown spuds, the latest vogue in vodka is more craft than kitsch.

"Vodka distilleries are saying, 'Listen, let's get back to our basics. Let's make these products and represent ourselves in a way that holds true to mixing a very clean cocktail,'" says Jeff Leanheart, beverage director of The Smith Lincoln Center in New York City.

No candy-flavoured vodkas here. These trendy craft vodkas make a "clean cocktail." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Flavoured vodkas have been huge in recent years — bubblegum flavoured martini, anyone? — and Leanheart doesn't expect them to disappear. But there's a serious spirit emerging in new premium vodkas that mirrors the food world emphasis on fresh, local and seasonal products.

Take Reyka, a new vodka from Iceland that in addition to being made with glacier water, is filtered over Icelandic lava rocks.

The result is a spirit with "a beautiful mouth feel that shows beautifully in simple drinks. It can be drunk almost naked, if you will," says Charlotte Voisey, well-known mixologist.

Money still doesn't grow on trees

Londoners walking through Potters Field Park were surprised to see a "money tree" blooming with £9,820 ($17,919.15) in £10 notes, the average amount a working British family has in savings, on Thursday in London, England. The tree was planted by Sunlife to encourage the nation to start saving at least £10 a month for a brighter future.

1 Star Trek dad. A Vancouver dad is selling his custom 1978 GMC van — a shrine to Star Trek — on eBay. It's airbrushed with stunning imagery from ST, and the interior has diamond-quilted red velvet. Seems the dad has to "shrink the family vehicle stable" due to "two small boys and no time." Some single dude is bound to scoop it up for his Trekkies, er, treks, across Canada.

2 Spontaneous combustion, eh? An Edmonton man staying at a relative's house suffered second-degree burns to his body after waking up on fire Saturday morning. The man and family witnesses suggest it was a case of spontaneous combustion. The police are investigating, but one thing's for sure: This gives new meaning to the expression, "He's on fire!"

3 Ikea adopt-a-dog. As part of a charitable initiative, select Ikeas are placing life-size cardboard cutouts of dogs in some of their display rooms. This allows consumers to envision what a room could look like with a dog in it, and encourage them to consider adopting a homeless pet. Just don't leave Ikea meatballs on the coffee table or Rover will eat 'em!

4 Star Wars Minecraft. Grahame Skeavington is recreating Star Wars, shot for shot, within Minecraft — and he says the final version will be ready (for free) in 2015. He released a teaser trailer this week to YouTube that went viral. Skeavington has been working on this project for three years. He has given new meaning to "project." My projects last mere minutes.

A guide speaks about a sewer processing system to young visitors wearing hats made to look like feces at an exhibition at the National Museum of Emerging Science and Innovation in Tokyo on Thursday. The exhibition, aimed at children, focuses on the idea of "what an environmentally friendly toilet is" and the effects human waste has on the environment. SHIZUO KAMBAYASHI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Poopyheads get flushed down Toilet!? and break poo taboo

A new exhibit at a Tokyo museum is all about crap.

The "Toilet!? Human Waste & Earth's Future" display at the National Museum of Emerging Science and Innovation (Miraikan) is all about poop, the bathroom throne and the importance of the potty. Children can put on poo-shaped brown hats and slide down a giant toilet slide. You too can become feces!" a sign for the exhibit boasts.

But the potty-themed exhibit has a serious purpose — it calls attention to the startling fact that 2.5 billion people around the world do not have access to clean and sanitary toilets.

Guests are encouraged to learn about different kinds of human excrement, how toilets function in space and the inner-workings of the sewage system.

"People usually look away when it comes to toilets and feces, but you cannot see problems with this kind of attitude," museum staffer Tami Sakamaki told Agence France-Presse. NYDAILYNEWS.COM

Dirty talk

"The idea is to raise consciousness about these problems. Even if they are dirty things, it is important to talk about them openly."

Tami Sakamaki, museum staffer, on the Toilet!? exhibit, which is on until Oct. 5

Ice melting

ANDREW FIFIELD
andrew.fifield@metronews.ca

The coast of Newfoundland has been, to use local parlance, "maggoty" with icebergs this summer. And until a glacial Batman started making the rounds online this week, this arched ice island was the biggest celebrity of them all.

Well, brace for bad news, berg fans. The arch, while inarguably lovely, wasn't exactly architecturally sound — a startling lesson learned by Rick and his wife from an uncomfortably close distance. (riickstead/YouTube)

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Morgan Freeman and Scarlett Johansson star in Lucy, which opens this weekend. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Lucy (Scarlett Johansson) begins the story "just like you: vulnerable, uncertain, frightened of death," but when the bag of drugs some very bad people "slipped into her lower tummy" bursts, her life is changed forever. She doesn't overdose. Instead the drug expands her mind to 10 times the usual capacity. She becomes a turbo-charged human who can change her appearance and move objects with her mind. She contacts a world-famous neuroscientist (Morgan Freeman) to pass along her newfound knowledge, but not before unleashing the power of her mind on the baddies who got her into this mess.

Don't stop the action!
Pseudoscience, dime-store spirituality and Morgan Freeman lectures bog down what could be a fun summer action flick

Richard: Mark, Lucy is a different style of movie, the philosophical action movie. The philosophy is all mumbo-jumbo but that doesn't matter because the film is filled with many enjoyable scenes.

Imagine a mix of Limitless, La Femme Nikita and The Matrix run through Luc Besson's absurd style of moviemaking and you get the idea of what this movie is all about. What did you make of it?

Mark: The movie is great when it remembers it's a thriller but when the pseudoscience and dime-store spirituality takes over, it becomes oppressive.

I always can depend on Besson for brisk pacing but he slows it all down for a series of lectures — literally, with Morgan Freeman narrating his part as seems to be his custom now.

RC: Freeman is one of two top-billed stars in this movie, but his part could have been played by almost anyone. The movie really belongs to Scarlett Johansson, who starts off as a bubbly party girl and ends the movie as the keeper of the secrets of the universe.

It's a bit of a stretch, but if you can wade through the silly scientific theories, there are some great scenes that are more fun than a barrel of neuroscientists.

In one fight scene, all the bad guys have knives and guns while Johansson taps into her inner Jedi Knight to defeat them without raising her hand.

That sequence alone is worth sitting through the entire 80-minute running time.

MB: I liked lots of scenes in the movie, especially at the beginning when Johansson realizes how much trouble she's in.

Afterward she's a bit of an automaton but a very hot one. And what did you think of the trippy psychedelic visuals and time travel revelations toward the end?

RC: You mean the Terrence-Malick-by-way-of-Stanley-Kubrick tribute?

I don't want to give away anything, but with a movie as loopy as this one, I don't think it's a spoiler to say that there is some wild time travel back to the beginning of time.

I guess it's an attempt to add some profundity to the story, but it plays more like a Philosophy 101 student on an acid trip.

MB: Loopy is right, Richard, maybe even crazy.

But at least Besson cribs from the best.

Mike Cahill has his eyes on the prize

I Origins. Filmmaker set out to make sci-fi movie that thrills — the result was a small budget film that looks like a Hollywood blockbuster

scene@metronews.ca

Filmmaker Mike Cahill doesn't want audiences to know very much about his new movie before checking it out.

"The plot is one thing but the plot is not the whole movie," said the director ahead of the theatrical release of I Origins. "There's the performances, there's the emotion; there are layers that we put into every frame of the film. So I think the less you know, the better it is."

While the film certainly has twists that shall not be spoiled here, the story revolves around a molecular biologist (Michael Pitt) studying the evolution of the eye. After he makes a shocking discovery, it begins to raise conflicting questions involving spirituality and science.

"Science lends itself really well to cinema because science is the landscape of new frontiers," said Cahill. "In this movie, we look at the eye, we look at iris biometrics, we look at new technologies that exist now that did not exist fifty years ago and we tell stories using those new technologies. That's only possible with innovations from science."

Cahill didn't rely too much on scientific technology to make I Origins look like a big-budget blockbuster however. Financed for a modest amount of money, the sci-fi thriller appears as epic as any summer hit out of Hollywood — without being weighted down in special effects.

"The truth is, with big films there is just such waste," said Pitt, best known for HBO's Boardwalk Empire. "Mike knows what it takes to get something made. Some directors just come up with some idea on the spot and pass it off to someone else to figure out how to get it made. (Mike's) films are just much leaner."

"I feel like it's as big as it should be," added Cahill. "I feel like your ideas (can be) timeless. It will not look dated years from now and your scale is as infinite as your context so I never felt restricted by budget."

Michael Cahill. THE CANADIAN PRESS

More from the pair

- The less you know with Michael Pitt. "I didn't know anything going in. I still don't know anything," joked Pitt of the film's complexities. "It was such a well-crafted story with such interesting ideas that I think its the type of film that just reveals new things upon repeat viewings."
- Pitt on picking parts. "Whenever I use my brain, I am usually wrong about 95% of the time," said Pitt. "If I go with my first instinct, I am always better off."
- Cahill's favourite part of filmmaking. "My favourite part is being in production and bearing witness to the brilliance of particularly the actors," said Cahill. "It's really, really exciting to see the words come alive in a way that my imagination is not even prepared for."

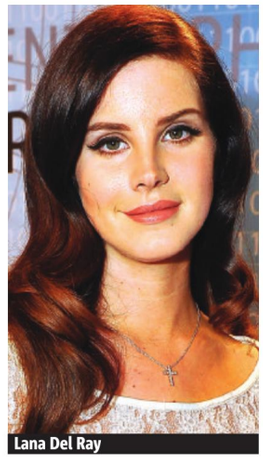
Bieber pops a wheelie puzzling stunt at Disneyland

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Justin Bieber had fans scratching their heads during a recent trip to Disneyland when he was seen being pushed around in a wheelchair — leading some to speculate he was looking to cut lines at the more popular rides. For once, Bieber's people and I are on the same page because that's just plain ridiculous. As they explained to TMZ, he wouldn't need to worry about lines because Disney staff were already on hand to help him cut the lines anyway like any normal famous person. The wheelchair, they say, was because Bieber was nursing a basketball injury, though he was seen the day before and after in L.A. carrying his own weight just fine. But they go too far with their explanation of the lad's odd behaviour by saying he "only sat in the wheelchair for a few moments," since fan photos and videos from throughout the day tell a different story. It's OK, Justin. Sometimes I don't feel like walking when I'm getting a free, all-access, line-hopping tour of the Happiest Place on Earth either. I understand. Walking's hard, man.



Lana Del Ray

Lana's pet peeve? Not being able to sleep her way to a record deal

Lana Del Rey is causing a stir again, claiming her controversial new song F—ed My Way to the Top is at least partially true. "You know, I have slept with a lot of guys in the industry. But none of them helped me get my record deals. Which is annoying," she tells Complex magazine. Also annoying? How much people criticize her, though with this new album she insists she's more prepared than last time. "That gold and platinum stuff, it doesn't mean as much if you're walking down the street and you can hear people saying things about you. That doesn't even out," she says. "The good thing about catching so much grief from critics is that you literally do not f—ing care. It put me in a mind frame where I expect things not to go right, because they generally don't." You … go, girl?

Barbecue classic gets a saucy makeover

Flank Steak with Chimichurri Sauce.

Your marinade choice can make all the difference to flavour

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

Basic steaks aren't too exotic, but that doesn't mean they can't impress.

For me, what separates the amateurs from the pros is little extras like a bright sauce or unexpected heat.

With this classic-with-a-twist, you're sure to become the new neighbourhood barbecue master.

Chimichurri

1. In a bowl, combine all the ingredients. Keep 1 cup (250 ml) in the refrigerator until serving.

Steaks

1. In a glass dish or sealable plastic bag, cover the flank steaks with the remaining Chimichurri sauce. Cover the dish or seal the bag and refrigerate for 12 to 24 hours.

2. Preheat the grill, setting the burners on high. Oil the grate.

3. Remove the steaks from the marinade and rub with salt and pepper.

4. Grill steaks for about 5 minutes on each side depending on their size or until the desired doneness. Set aside on a plate and let rest for 5 minutes.

5. Slice thinly against the grain of the meat and drizzle with the reserved sauce. Serve with rice and slices of avocado drizzled with lime juice. Season with salt and pepper.

Ingredients

Chimichurri
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) finely chopped shallots
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) chopped fresh oregano
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) chopped fresh cilantro
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) chopped parsley
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) chopped fresh thyme
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) finely chopped garlic
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) crushed red pepper flakes, or to taste
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) red wine vinegar
- 1 1/2 cups (375 ml) olive oil

Steaks
- 2 lb (1 kg) flank steak
- 1 tsp (5 ml) salt
- 1 tsp (5 ml) ground pepper

While I'm willing to pour a glass of anything no matter the weather, most red wine doesn't scream "thirst-quenching" at me after an hour of lawn mowing.

Though beer is a back deck staple, there are plenty of wines that can share that space.

My first choice this time of year is rosé. I love its fresh, berry goodness and bright pink colours, along with its ability to match with most food.

If you think rosé is a summertime cliché (and it isn't), look to countries where hot temperatures are more than seasonal — they're a way of life.

Portugal is a great example. It may be famous for its thick fortified wines, but come the warmer months everyone reaches for a glass of white Vinho Verde — a zippy wine with a touch of effervescence.

Styles vary and a wide variety is carried across Canada. Quinta da Aveleda's 2012 Vinho Verde ($9.95 - $12.99) combines citrus, lime and soft, tropical fruit with a light fizz. Perfect as an aperitif or with salads and light seafood dishes.

PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Spicy Triple Burgers heat it up

1. Seasoning: In a bowl, combine all seasoning ingredients. Set aside.

2. Spicy Mayo: In a bowl, combine all mayo ingredients. Refrigerate.

3. Preheat grill, setting burners to high. Oil grate. Shape beef into 12 very thin patties.

4. Grill bacon until crisp. Grill burgers about 3 minutes per side or until meat is thoroughly cooked. Sprinkle with seasoning. One minute before the end of cooking, place cheese slices on four patties. Toast buns.

Ingredients

Seasoning
1 tbsp (15 ml) salt
2 tsp (10 ml) paprika
1 tsp (5 ml) dry mustard
1 tsp (5 ml) ground pepper
1 tsp (5 ml) onion powder
1/2 tsp (2 1/2 ml) garlic powder
1/2 tsp (2 1/2 ml) celery salt

Spicy Mayonnaise
1/2 cup (125 ml) mayonnaise
2 tsp (10 ml) chili powder
2 tsp (10 ml) Dijon mustard

Hamburgers
2 lb (675 g) lean ground beef
8 slices bacon
4 slices mozzarella cheese
4 hamburger buns
1 tomato, cut into thin slices
4 lettuce leaves

5. Assembly: Spread mayo sauce on buns. Place meat topped with cheese on bottom buns. Add plain patties and garnish with tomatoes. Add last patties. Layer with slices of bacon and lettuce. Cover with top buns. RICARDO

Boot and Hearts Festival

Date: July 31-Aug. 3
Location: Canadian Tire Motorsport Park, Bowmanville

Country music lovers unite! This festival is not for the faint of (country) heart. So much so that if you're headed here, you're going to end up in Bowmanville. Why? 'Cause Toronto can't handle this many cowboy boots. Expect Tim McGraw, Carrie Underwood, Lionel Richie, Sheryl Crow, Kid Rock and many, many more to strut across the stage.

Taste of Toronto

Date: July 24-27
Location: Fort York

For three days, Fort York will be home to 16 of Toronto's top restaurants all delivering the best food you've ever tasted. The first 'taste' festival of its kind to be held in North America, Taste of Toronto will not disappoint — mainly because they couldn't have picked a better city for their debut.

Osheaga

Date: August 1-3
Location: Parc Jean-Drapeau on Île Sainte-Hélène, Montréal

Yes, it's in Montreal. And it's already sold out. But the shear number of Torontonians heading east on the 401 to catch this epic three-day festival grows every year. In fact, more than 40,000 people pack the venue every day to catch one of the 110 bands that, this year, will include the likes of Outkast, Jack White, Lorde, and Arctic Monkeys. Summer road trips are the best.

Session Muskoka

Date: August 2
Location: Annie Williams Park, Bracebridge

The only better thing than heading to Muskoka is heading to Muskoka to drink craft beer. Luckily, there's a festival for that. The 6th annual Session Muskoka returns with wine, beer, spirits, and cider for all. With 15 breweries, live music, and a brewmaster Olympics, we're pretty sure it'll be impossible to be bored. But if it happens, there's always the lake.

OVO Fest

Date: August 3-4
Location: Molson Canadian Amphitheatre

Drake is returning this year with his annual OVO fest featuring Outkast and, well, himself. Other special guests will remain unnamed until closer to the date, but last year's surprise guests included Lil Wayne, Kayne West, and TLC. In it's fifth year running, you know Drizzy is going to have something special up his sleeve.

Hart House Craft Beer Festival

Date: July 31
Location: 7 Hart House Circle

If Muskoka is just a little too far for you to go to dive into a great craft beer selection, you're in luck. The 6th annual Hart House Craft Beer Festival offers one of the best curated selections in Canada. Each ticket includes eight sample beer tickets, a sampling glass, and an all-you-can-eat patio barbeque by Chef Marco Tucci. You might need to hit Craigslist to get in, though.

Dangling karats: Cochrane nabs gold No. 1 in Glasgow

Canada's Ryan Cochrane competes in the fourth heat of the men's 400-metre freestyle at Tollcross International Swimming Centre during Day 1 of the Commonwealth Games on Thursday in Glasgow, Scotland. The Victoria native won the event in three minutes 43.46 seconds, 0.63 seconds ahead of Australia's David McKeon. He broke his own Canadian record, set at the 2008 Beijing Olympics.

Stro sniffs no-no vs. Sox

MLB. Rookie right-hander twirls another gem as Blue Jays take series finale vs. Boston

Toronto Blue Jays manager John Gibbons couldn't help but worry just a little. Marcus Stroman had a no-hitter alive through six innings, but the prized 23-year-old prospect was up to 91 pitches in a game the Blue Jays were well on their way to winning.

Stroman's third pitch of the seventh inning and 94th of Thursday afternoon hit Shane Victorino's bat and landed in centre field for a bloop single. The sellout crowd of 46,683 applauded, while Gibbons could take a deep breath knowing he wouldn't have to make the impossible decision on whether or not to keep the young pitcher in the game.

Stroman ended up throwing seven innings of one-hit ball in an 8-0 victory over the Red Sox.

Blue Jays pitcher Marcus Stroman says a prayer before delivering the first pitch against the Red Sox on Thursday at Rogers Centre. TOM SZCZERBOWSKI/GETTY IMAGES

"I can't say that I'm glad he gave up a hit," Gibbons said, trailing off. "If this keeps going, you've got a young kid, you're trying to win a division and you keep throwing him out there over and over. I don't know if relieved is the word, but it didn't hurt. Sorry, Stro."

Stroman allowed just one hit over seven innings to give the Blue Jays (54-49) not only an important win, but optimism about the future.

He improved to 6-2 with a 3.21 earned-run average, admittedly surpassing his own expectations in his rookie year.

"It's definitely been a ride so far," Stroman said. "But I'm not surprised. It's just all the hard work that goes into it and going out there having your game plan and attacking hitters. That's the biggest thing ... just attacking hitters and getting ahead in the count."

The Blue Jays' bats staked Stroman to a significant lead by beating up on Boston's Rubby De La Rosa (3-3), who gave up six earned runs on nine hits in four-plus innings. First-baseman Juan Francisco (3-for-4 with 4 RBI) finished a double short of the cycle, and left-fielder Melky Cabrera drove in two more runs. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wiggins signs with Cavs, T-Wolves still lurking

No. 1 overall draft pick Andrew Wiggins signed with the Cavaliers on Thursday. MIKE STOBE/GETTY IMAGES

Andrew Wiggins has an NBA home. Maybe a temporary one.

The Cavaliers signed the No. 1 overall draft pick Thursday, a deal that prevents Wiggins from being traded for 30 days.

Wiggins has been linked to a possible blockbuster trade with Minnesota for all-star forward Kevin Love. But any deal now involving Wiggins can't be finalized for at least 30 days.

The Cavs and Timberwolves have had talks about a trade involving Love for months, long before Cleveland selected Wiggins, the former Kansas standout, with the first pick in May's draft. Those discussions have intensified lately, and the sides can still reach an agreement on a trade but nothing can be finalized until late August.

Cleveland's decision to sign Wiggins actually makes it easier to trade him. Before his deal, he had zero value on the salary cap but his contract — worth $5.5 million — could allow the Cavs to clear enough room to take on a player like Love, who is set to earn $15.7 million next season. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who wants Love?

Golden State has shown interest in the 25-year-old Kevin Love. But the Warriors have refused to include guard Klay Thompson in any offer, which has been a deal-breaker for the Timberwolves.

Leafs hope to rise with new AGM

28-year-old Leafs assistant GM Kyle Dubas stands in the Leafs dressing room at the Air Canada Centre. Dubas is expected to help modernize the struggling Toronto franchise. RANDY RISLING/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

NHL. Puck prodigy Kyle Dubas says he's made the most of every opportunity given

Growing up with hockey in his blood, Kyle Dubas learned an important lesson from his grandfather.

"Never let the grass grow under your feet. Keep moving," Walter Dubas told his grandson.

Dubas has lived that mantra, from his early days when he worked as an OHL stick boy to this week when he was named assistant general manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs at the age of 28.

"I've been pretty lucky along the way," Dubas said. "I've been able to have opportunities open up ... and then try to make the most of those opportunities every day."

But to reach this point as one of the youngest assistant GMs in NHL history, the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., native has needed more than luck.

"He's a natural," said Todd Reynolds, who hired Dubas as an agent at Uptown Sports Management eight years ago. "He's likable, he's got a great personality. He's smart, he knows the game, he loves it. He just soaks it up 24/7."

When the Leafs take the ice next season, they could have 10 players older than their prodigy of an assistant general manager. Upon hiring him, president Brendan Shanahan made it clear he didn't care about age — he was looking for a "rising star."

"I just think that this is somebody that it wasn't going to be long before somebody else snatched him up," Shanahan said, "and we feel very lucky that we were able to get him."

Dubas didn't become a hot commodity overnight.

Like a lot of Canadian kids, he had what his father, Mark, called "an early beginning" in the sport. Mark, a police officer in Sault Ste. Marie, coached him a bit when he was very young, but his love of game mostly came from his grandfather. Walter Dubas coached the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, then a Northern Ontario Junior Hockey League franchise, from 1962 to '68.

"He was his grandfather's best friend," said Dubas's grandmother Marietta. "They spent a lot of time together and it was all about hockey."

Concussions — one in bantam and then what Mark called a little reoccurrence at school — cut short Dubas's playing career. But those close to him knew he wouldn't be discouraged. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Working for Dubas

"It's not limited to just the hockey: It's in business, it's in all other sports, it's in life in general. He is a person that just challenges himself every single day to get better and is never satisfied." Sault Ste. Marie coach Sheldon Keefe

E-BOOKS CLASS ACTION

To all persons in Canada who purchased E-Books from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014
Notice of Certification/Authorization and Proposed Canadian Settlement

THE LAWSUITS
Class action lawsuits were commenced in Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec ("Actions") against Apple Inc. ("Apple") and various publishers of E-Books (the "Publishers", particularized below) alleging they conspired to fix, maintain, increase or control the price of E-Books sold by them in Canada, contrary to Part VI of the Competition Act, the common law and the Civil Code of Quebec (the "Alleged Conspiracy"). The Actions allege that, as a result of the Alleged Conspiracy, the price of E-Books sold in Canada from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014 was artificially high, and seek, among other things, reimbursement of the alleged overcharges. The defendants deny those allegations, and the claims have not been proven in Court.

THE PUBLISHERS
The Publishers are Hachette Book Group Canada Ltd, Hachette Book Group Inc., HarperCollins Canada Limited, HarperCollins Publishers LLC, Macmillan Publishers, Inc., Penguin Group (USA) LLC (formerly Penguin Group (USA), INC.), Penguin Canada Books, Inc. and Simon & Schuster Canada, a division of CBS Canada Holdings Co.

THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT
A settlement was reached with the Publishers (the "Settlement"). Settlement benefits include payment of $3,175,000 (the "Settlement Proceeds") and cooperation in prosecuting the Actions against Apple. The Settlement must be approved by the Ontario and Quebec Courts ("Courts") to be effective.

CERTIFICATION / AUTHORIZATION
For the purposes of implementing the Settlement, the Actions were certified/authorized as class actions by the Courts in relation only to the Publishers. This means that the determinations made in the Actions will automatically apply to all persons who purchased E-Books in Canada between April 1, 2010 and September 22, 2014, unless they take steps to exclude themselves from the Actions (see below under "Your Options"). Certification / authorization will be set aside if the Settlement is not approved by all the Courts.

SETTLEMENT APPROVAL HEARINGS
The requests to approve the Settlement will take place in hearings on October 6, 2014 at 10:00 a.m. in Windsor, Ontario and October 14, 2014 at 9:30 a.m. in Montréal, Quebec. At the same time, the Class Lawyers may seek approval of their contingency agreements with the representative plaintiffs and of a fee percentage to be deducted from the Settlement Proceeds with other court-approved costs.

THE SETTLEMENT AFFECTS YOUR RIGHTS
If the Settlement is approved, it will affect all persons in Canada who purchased E-Books from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014 except those who opt out of the Actions, the Defendants and certain related parties ("Settlement Class Members"). Under the Settlement, Settlement Class Members RELEASE the Publishers and other related parties from claims regarding the purchase of E-Books in Canada from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014, and commit to discontinue or dismiss other proceedings.

WILL I RECEIVE ANY MONEY AT THIS TIME?
The net Settlement Proceeds (after deduction of legal fees and expenses and any other amounts approved by the Courts) will be held in trust for the benefit of Settlement Class Members. No disbursement of money to Settlement Class Members is contemplated at this time. The manner in which the net Settlement Proceeds will be distributed will be determined by the Courts at a later date, in particular because the case is continuing against Apple and the Courts may be asked to permit their use in the continued prosecution of the Actions. If the Courts approve a distribution of the net Settlement Proceeds, another notice will be provided and posted online at www.Ebooksettlement.ca explaining who is eligible for direct payment and how those persons can apply to receive payment. In the meantime, all purchasers of E-Books in Canada are encouraged to retain proof of purchase of E-Books.

YOUR OPTIONS
If you want to participate in the Actions and benefit from this Settlement and any later settlements or judgments, you do not need to do anything now. All persons in Canada who purchased E-Books from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014 are automatically included. You can provide your name and contact information to the Class Lawyers so we can provide further updates on the Actions to you and let you know once the Courts approve a plan to distribute the net Settlement Proceeds.

If you do not want to participate in the Actions, or participate in the Settlement, you must exclude yourself by completing and sending an Opt Out Form to the Class Lawyers by September 22, 2014 (the "Opt Out Deadline"). Opt Out Forms are available at www.Ebooksettlement.ca or from the Class Lawyers. If you opt out, you will keep any right to bring your own lawsuit but will not receive the benefit of this or future settlements or any judgments in the Actions. If you do not opt out of the Actions by the Opt Out Deadline, you will be bound by the Settlement and will not be able to opt out of the Actions in the future.

To comment on or object to the Settlement, you must write to one of the Class Lawyers by September 26, 2014. Comments and objections will be provided to the Courts, but the Courts cannot change the terms of the Settlement.

DO I NEED TO PAY ANYTHING?
You do not need to pay anything out of your pocket. The plaintiffs and petitioners entered into contingency agreements with the Class Lawyers providing for payment of up to 1/3 of amounts recovered in the Actions and reimbursement of disbursements incurred to prosecute the Actions. The Courts will determine the amount to be paid to the Class Lawyers from the Settlement Proceeds.

HOW DO I CONTACT THE CLASS LAWYERS?
To ask questions about the Settlement or Actions, or register as an E-Book purchaser, contact:
• For British Columbia residents: Luciana P. Brasil of Branch MacMaster LLP care of uherlev@branmac.com
• For Quebec residents: Normand Painchaud of Sylvestre Fafard Painchaud care of e.josse@sfpavocats.ca
• For all others: Heather Rumble Peterson of Sutts Strosberg LLP care of ebooks@strosbergco.com

This Notice is a summary. For more information about the Settlement or to read the settlement agreement, please visit www.Ebooksettlement.ca or contact the Class Lawyers.

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Your head may be full of ideas but not every one of them is practical, so don't get carried away. Tomorrow's new moon indicates great things, but you must take your time and think.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Someone you like may say something hurtful about you today, but you must not let your friendship suffer. You are probably being a bit too sensitive for your own good.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
You have nothing to prove and everything to look forward to. Even if you don't quite believe it now you will over the weekend.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
If someone who doesn't normally pay you attention tells you what a great person you are, it's a sign they are after something. That something could be your approval.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You may be inclined to believe that your recent run of good fortune will come to an end but nothing could be further from the truth. If anything your days will keep getting better.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
You may see enemies in every nook and cranny but most of them exist in your imagination only, so get a grip and start getting important things done.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You have a tendency to believe in yourself to such a degree that you think nothing can go wrong. You also need to recognize everyone has limits.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
It's not like you to let others have the last word but it will pay you to do so today. Even if you can quite easily prove someone wrong, don't. They will remember it and harbour thoughts of revenge.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Others will go out of their way to pick holes in your arguments over the next 24 hours. Ignore them. Having said that, be aware there may be something you have overlooked.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Resist the temptation to look at the world as if everything that happens is a disaster. Focus only on good news today and soon life will look grand again.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Mercury, planet of trickery, could mislead you into thinking you've got the best of a deal when others will profit more than you. Check the small print.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
The more someone tries to coerce you into doing something you are not certain is in your best interests, the more you must resist.
